SIX FRENCH WINES
for $99.00

2008 Chateau Rocher Figiac - Situated on the right bank of Bordeaux, in the Merlot dominant A.O.C. region of Saint Emilion, Rocher Figiac unveils a wonderful wild berry and oaky scent. On the palate, the wine shows youth and concentration, yet possesses some age worthy character with its smooth tannin structure and subtle spices, followed with an opulent core of mixed berries and ripe plum flavors that showcases the true essence of Saint Emilion. Enjoy this classic styled right bank rouge over the next 4-6 years. $19.99

2006 Chateau Malmaison - Over to the left bank of Bordeaux, in the Moulis-Haut Medoc A.O.C., this mature styled offering is both Merlot and Cabernet based. The wine is lavishly structured with deep concentrated dark berry flavors, accented with earthy spice tones, dusty tannins followed by a long, rich, sweet oaked finish. Enjoy this Wine Spectator Top 100 Bordeaux rouge over the next 3-5 years. $19.99

2009 Domaine Chofflet Valdenaire Givry - The Givry A.O.C. is located within Burgundy's Cote Chalonnaise, which is just south of the Cote de Beaune. Chofflet is a well-structured Pinot Noir that offers full terroir qualities and a stylishly youthful expression of the great 2009 vintage. The wine serves up a wonderfully spice texture with mixed fruit flavors layered in blackberry and cherry, balanced with acidity, subtle forest floor and smooth tannins. Enjoy this 90 point rated red Burgundy over the next 4-6 years. $21.99

2007 Domaine de la Voute de Crozes - Produced from the artful hands of Nichole Chanrion, this Cru Beaujolais of the Cotes de Brouilly is as beautifully well-made Gamay as you will find from this region. Voute de Crozes is a small four hectare site where the yields are kept low to maintain the highest quality. The Cotes de Brouilly region is known for producing ripe concentrated reds that are expressive and distinctively terroir driven. The lovely floral aroma leads into well-balanced flavors of wild cherry, red raspberry and ripe strawberry. The tannin sensation gives a silky textured expression, while the acidic structure lends itself to the supple spices. Enjoy this 90 point rated Cru Beaujolais over the next 2-3 years. $19.99

2009 Domaine de la Renjarde Cotes du Rhone Villages - The Domaine's property is comprised of vines averaging more than 40 years old that yield grapes of remarkable quality. This family operation is also tied into the renowned Chateau La Nerthe, which is one of the top properties in the Chateaunef du Pape A.O.C. It is of no surprise that this Cotes du Rhone Villages exhibits such endowed quality. Renjarde is a traditional blend of southern Rhone grape varieties consisting of Grenache, Syrah, Cinsault, Mourvedre and Carignan. The wine shows incredible youth and structure with its inviting sweet spice, dark fruits and smoked meat aroma. The robust and rich flavors give way to the ripe layers of red and black cherry, balanced with shades of earthy spice, roasted coffee and cocoa, gripped with fine young tannins. Enjoy this magnificently well-made 89 point Rhone over the next 5-7 years. $17.99

2008 Blason d' Aussieres - This full-bodied Languedoc rouge, located in the Corbieres A.O.C., comes under the direction of the vast wine firm Domaines Barons de Rothschild Lafite. Blason d'Aussieres is an outstanding quality red that truly represents the old world country style of the Languedoc. It is blended with the near identical grape selection as the previous wine in Domaine Renjarde, though it is quite different in its flavor profile. This wine is round, ripe and supple, having a copiously dark, rich blackberry and raspberry concentration, combined with a nice integration of spices and rusticity. Enjoy over the next 3-5 years. $16.99

CONNOISSEUR'S COLLECTION

SIX ITALIAN WINES
for $99.00

2009 Allegrini Palazzo Della Torre - Allegrini is one of the top estates in the Veneto for Valpolicella and Amarone. Palazzo Della Torre is a single vineyard bottling that breaks from the traditional rules by substituting Sangiovese and Syrah for the required Molinara variety to finish off the blend with Corvina and Rondinella. As a result, the wine cannot be called Valpolicella. Allegrini feels the D.O.C. rules do not allow for the highest possible quality of wine, much like the first wineries to make Super-Tuscans. Palazzo is full-bodied with layered flavors mixed with rich, ripe black cherry and currants, along with notes of licorice and vanilla. Enjoy this consistently rated 90 point Veneto red over the next 5 plus years. $19.99

2008 Aia Vecchia Lagone - This Tuscan I.G.T. blend has had quite a following since we first featured it over a decade ago. Coming from two vineyard sources on the Tuscan coast, Lagone is a blend of Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon and Sangiovese. Tibor Gal, former winemaker for Super-Tuscan great Ornellaia, was brought in to consult with this project. The wine possesses Bordeaux-like complexity with Italian terrior richness by showcasing an abundance of black fruits tied into earthy mineral tones, cassis and a solid structure on the finish. Enjoy this 90+ point Tuscan red over the next 3-5 years. $15.99

2009 Cantina Colosi Nero D'Avola - Colosi exhibits a rich, yet more elegant style of Sicily's native Nero D'Avola grape variety. This I.G.T. starts out with a lovely floral and spiced berry scent that is a result of being vinified and aged entirely in steel tank. The wine shows a more assertive and acid structure that is enveloped in a rich flavor concentration of wild cherry, plum and bramble fruits, backed with a velvety texture, layered in young tannins. Enjoy this Sicilian favorite over the next 3-5 years. $15.99

2007 Viticcio Chianti Classico Riserva - This is an important winery to watch for years to come. The Landini family has some of the finest vineyard holdings in the famed Greve district of the Chianti Classico D.O.C.G.. This is a classic Chianti Classico Riserva that stands out with tremendous balance and structure. It has a terrific aroma of sweet dark cherry and cedar highlights. On the palate, you will find some rustic earthiness, a full-bodied core of mixed fruits, marked with licorice and tobacco, along with soft tannins that adjoins the long fruity finish. Enjoy this Wine Spectator Top 100 Chianti Classico over the next 5-7 years. $23.99

2007 Vietti Nebbiolo Perbacco - This Piedmont red is a very unique wine in how it is made. Of all Vietti's holdings in various Crus, they bottle four single vineyard Barolos on their own. The Nebbiolo from all the other Crus is harvested, fermented and blended together. After a period of ageing, the entire lot is tasted and separated into two parts. The first part that is bottled without further ageing goes into Nebbiolo Perbacco, while the second part undergoes additional time in barrel and is bottled as Barolo Castiglione. If aged a bit longer this wine would have been entitled to the Barolo designation. Instead it sells for half the price of many Barolos and represents a tremendous bargain. Enjoy this 92 plus declassified Barolo over the next 5-7 years. $24.99

2009 Terredora Dipaolo Aglianico - Aglianico is one of the oldest red grape varieties grown in the southern Italian regions of Basilicata and Campania. This leading producer from Campania delivers an opaque I.G.T. that possesses impressionable aromas of dusty cedar, black currants, fresh leather and smoky tar. Terredora's rustic, full-bodied and tannic structure is balanced with a lengthy concentration of sweet black fruit flavors that rounds out with spice and subtle oak. Enjoy this 88+ age worthy Aglianico over the next 5-7 years. $14.99

MONTHLY SPECIALS

2009 Avignonesi Rosso Di Montepulciano – Vino Nobile Di Montepulciano is a D.O.C.G. located in southeastern Tuscany. The wines here are made from a strain of Sangiovese called Prugnolo, and must contain at least 70% of this grape. Top producers from this region make wine close in quality to Brunello, and at about half the price. Avignonesi is arguably the finest producer within the D.O.C.G.. In 2009, the property changed ownership and the new owners, the Savery family, hoped to take the estate to even higher levels. Shortly after taking over the property, they made an interesting choice. With quality not being an issue, they decided not to bottle a 2009 Vino Nobile. They wanted to use this vintage as a separation point between the old regime and their work. All of the 2009 Vino Nobile was declassified into this Rosso Di Montepulciano, making for a unique opportunity. The '09 Rosso is 85% Prugnolo, 10% Canaiolo and 5% Mammola. It offers a perfumed nose, deep red fruits on the palate and a finish with cedar and black cherry notes. This outstanding Tuscan value will continue to drink well for another 3-5 years. $17.99

2009 Ferraton Cotes Du Rhone Blanc - The wines from Ferraton we have promoted in the last several years have been very warmly received. We expect this exceptional white to meet a similar response. This Rhone firm was started back in 1946 by Michel Ferraton. They were widely considered a leader in the region during the 1960s and '70s. However, by the mid '80s quality became inconsistent. That would all change though in 1998 when family friend Michel Chapoutier purchased a controlling interest in Ferraton. Transformation began in the vineyards as organic and then biodynamic farming was implemented for all Ferraton wines. Within a decade, the 60+ year old Rhone estate was back to producing wines of very high quality. Today, Chapoutier owns all of Ferraton and continues his commitment to raise the quality at the estate by appointing its own winemaking team. This Cotes Du Rhone Blanc is a delicious alternative white. The wine is a blend of 60% Granache Blanc and 40% Clairette, fermented in stainless steel without going through malolactic fermentation. On the palate this wine shows dry peach and apricot fruit, good acidity and a long crisp finish. Enjoy with light seafood or grilled white meats. $11.99

2009 Nozzole Le Bruniche Chardonnay - There was a time when interest in Chardonnay from Tuscany wasn't even looked at as a genuine source for this world's most celebrated white wine. In the late 80's, a handful of innovative Tuscan producers, like Nozzole, began taking an active role into this category, and over time, had paid off tremendously. "Le Bruniche" is the principal white wine vineyard situated within the Nozzole estate. This special site sits on the estate's most elevated hillsides with soil conditions that make it most favorable for the development of well-balanced Chardonnay. The wine exhibits a soft, toasty and baked apple aroma, serving up copious flavors of ripe citrus and white peach. Its persistent acidity is balanced with a rich, full-bodied structure, combined with nuances of vanilla and spice that marries into its remarkably long finish. Pair with roasted pork, organic poultry and rich cream pasta and fish. $15.99

2009 Domaine Paul Mas Carignan - The Languedoc A.C. of southern France has entered into a new and more progressive classification system by utilizing already established regions and redesignating wines either as "Grands Crus du Languedoc" or "Grands Vins du Languedoc". Recently confirmed by the governing authority, Conseil Interprofessionnel des Vins du Languedoc, each category is determined by its economic value, while having strict appellation rules and requirements that must be adhered to in order to be classified. Grapes were sourced for this bottling from their estate's Savignac Vineyard, which is situated in the Gres de Montpellier Grand Cru appellation with vines as old as 50 years. This Carignan is a deep red that exhibits a unique and rustic style by showcasing sweet subtle berry, toasted oak and a spice filled aroma, while providing a rich, full-bodied and black fruit concentration wrapped in soft chocolate like tannins, followed in a robust finish. Enjoy pairing this with hearty seafood or pork dishes. $11.99
